

Maggie Gau (in blue) and
Mary Bottari

Mary Bottari >

Wed, Jun 24, 12:18 AM

Are they actually in the building?

They were in the lobby but didn't get past the sliding doors that were locked. They've moved on now. But we think they're still around outer loop.

We are concerned that additional damage will be done to state buildings as they continue to work around the square area. Are there plans to intervene?

There is a small team of African-American de-escalation specialists who were present earlier who left who are now there now

I have not heard that our team and your team are disagreeing about specific interventions

I am just looking for clarification from your office about if/when

iMessage

Maggie Gau (in blue) and
Mary Bottari

Mary Bottari >

I am just looking for clarification from your office about if/when intervention will happen. They are obviously on city property now and not state property.

There's too much shorthand for a text but generally safety and property

I am headed down there now

Wed, Jun 24, 2:40 AM

Were picking up both statues now. Sigh.

Ok please let me know when we have both in our custody - thanks for the update

Wed, Jun 24, 7:12 AM

Just confirming these both were picked up? Thanks.

Delivered

iMessage

Tony Evers >

Maggie Gau (in blue, and on right) and Governor Tony Evers

Tue, Jun 23, 10:40 PM

Please call

Wed, Jun 24, 12:53 AM

There's been no visible police presence around the crowd so far tonight.

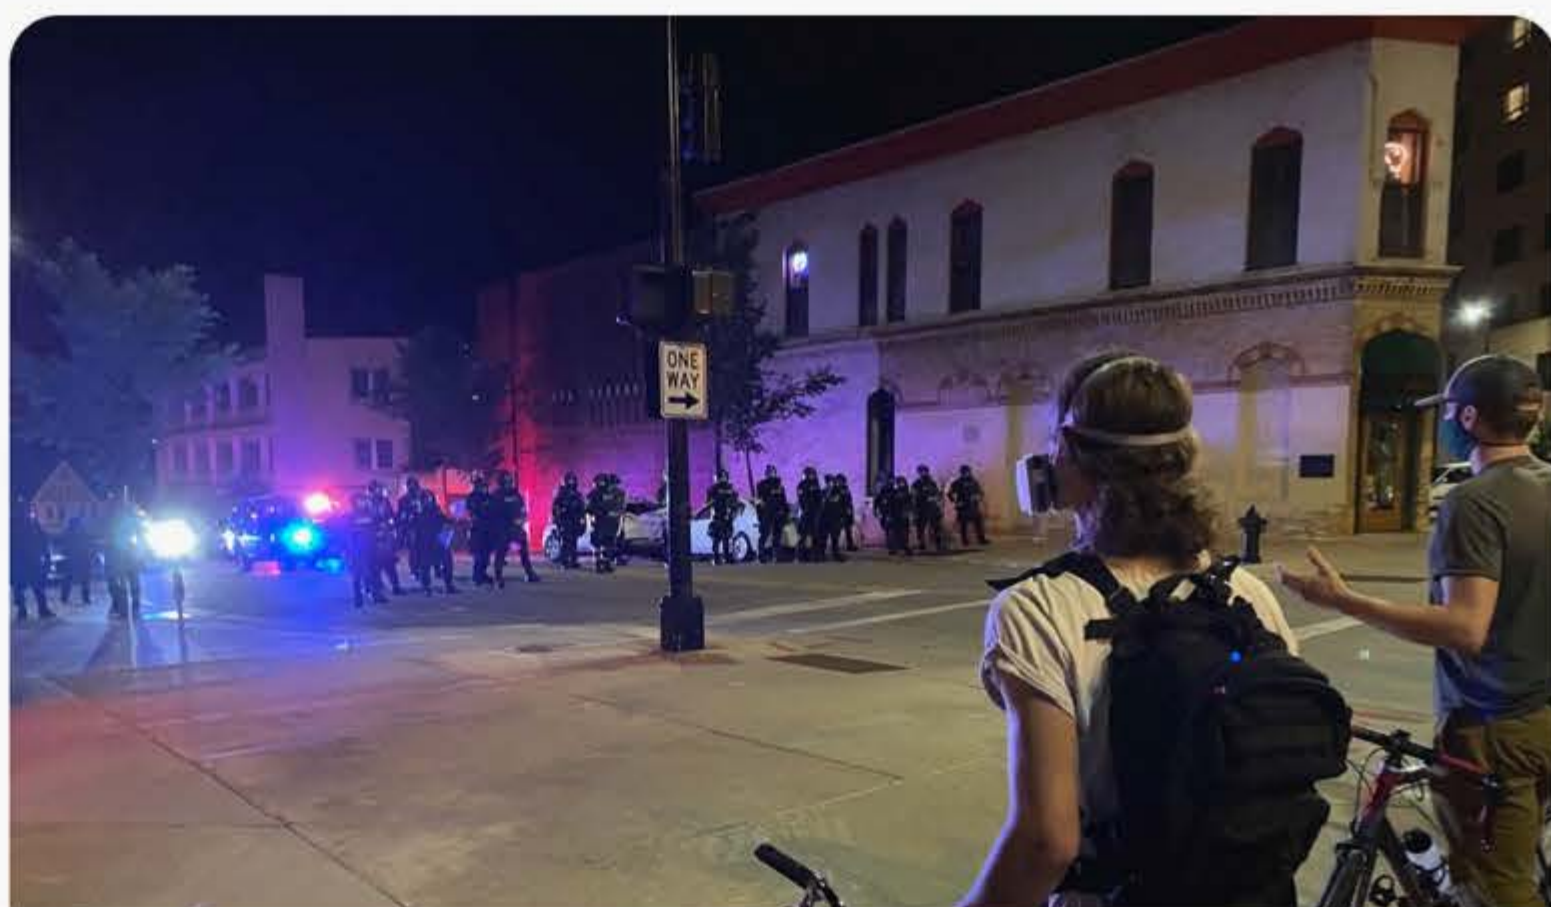

Emily Hamer
twitter.com

Wed, Jun 24, 2:59 AM

Dylan Brogan
@telldylan

After a tense 90 minutes, police in riot gear left the scene and protesters went home. No tear gas.

iMessage

Tony Evers >

Maggie Gau (on right) and Governor Tony Evers

There's been no visible police presence around the crowd so far tonight.

Emily Hamer
twitter.com

Wed, Jun 24, 2:59 AM

Dylan Brogan
@telldylan

After a tense 90 minutes, police in riot gear left the scene and protesters went home. No tear gas.

2:39 AM · 6/24/20 · Twitter for iPhone

14 Retweets 21 Likes

iMessage

Wed, Jun 24, 1:37 AM

Chris Patton and Maggie Gau

15S was where the breach occurred and the protestors were sprayed.
10S had windows smashed but the current info is that no one breached into the office.

Chris Patton is sender.