COMMENTS OR SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS:
"Today, I put out $100 to the first person who can find me a public elementary school in the state that is teaching Critical Race Theory as part of their curriculum. There isn't one. This is just another attempt by extremist politicians to use their ill-gotten power to sow further division and threaten our public schools at a time where they have been underfunded and trying to tackle the pandemic with limited resources. This attack comes just weeks after the same legislators passed a state budget that neglected the needs of our schools and will lead to teacher losses in all 421 school districts. It's clear that Republicans' only priority is catering to Trump's extremism, even when it hurts our kids."
